Summary

I currently have openings for private tutoring students. If you know someone who has a student in need of help, contact me at fanniemaddengrider@yahoo.com for more information. In addition, I am available to edit dissertations, theses, reports, resumes, book drafts, short stories, essays, or anything you can put into words.

Experience

Convergent media and speech Instructor

Morehead State University
August 2015 – Present (1 year 9 months) | morehead, kentucky

I am teaching Media Writing (in the Convergent Media program--very similar to the old news writing class) and Speech.

Tutor/jewelry designer/writer/editor

Yada Yada Designs
September 2010 – Present (6 years 8 months) | Clearfield, Ky

I tutor students from kindergarten to college, in all subjects, specializing in reading, writing and English as a second language. I also do freelance writing and editing, ghost-writing, photography, family history writing, promotional/PR/advertising/marketing work, specializing in small businesses, health care, and artists/craftspersons. I do mixed-media found art, and have exhibited at the Rowan County Arts Center. I make one-of-a-kind artisan jewelry for sale at art fairs, on my Etsy shop, and as commissioned pieces, especially for weddings and special events. I also do jewelry parties for adults and children. I also teach mixed-media classes, jewelry making classes, and workshops in how to turn your family history into a story or book, and a variety of meditaton classes including meditation for pain relief and healing for a variety of health conditions, as well as zen and transcendental meditation type techniques.

Developmental Reading Instructor

Morehead State University
August 2012 – December 2012 (5 months) | morehead, kentucky

I taught freshmen students who had scored low in reading on the ACT test.

Projects

Down On Main Street: Reclamation Art

July 2012 – July 2012

Alvin, Ari, and I have an exhibit of more than 50 pieces of mixed-media art and photographs at the Rowan County Arts Center through the 31st. All the collages and 3D pieces were made from things we found while walking on Main Street in Morehead. The blog has some photos from the exhibit and writings about "What We Learned From What You Dropped and Lost." We will be adding more photos, writings, and pics of the mixed-media pieces after we take down the exhibit on the 31st. In addition, we will be compiling all the community calendars together and putting everything on our blog, so you can subscribe and know what's happening. After this exhibit is over, we will continue to blog about local happenings, art, music, etc., and our creative projects. Our next project is an oral history of men and women who were alive during World War II, both those in the war and those carrying on here at home. These oral histories will be compiled into a full-length play of monologues. If you know of someone with World War II memories, let me know their contact information. We are also expanding our Down on Main Street project to include all county seats in the state, with hopes of getting at least one each of essays, photos, and found-art pieces from every one of the 120 counties. If you would like to submit something to the project, let me know. We will be compiling them on the blog. In addition, we are seeking a publisher for a book about our experience of walking Main Street, picking up trash, and then creating art from the trash blowing around on the street. We will included Ari's photos and pieces submitted to us from other counties.
